Part 6

The TV Stars from the desert

The meerkats of the Kalahari desert in South Africa are famous and Ann and Steve Toon went to find them.

Meerkats are animals which are about 30cm tall and live in groups of 20 to 30. The ones we were looking for were filmed during a period of four years and starred in a TV documentary series. We wanted to see them for real.

So it's 5.30am and we are in the middle of nowhere, waiting for the sun to burn off the remains of yesterday's storm clouds. Nearby, a large black bird lets rip his deafening, regular wake-up call. And while our eyes are off the ball, a meerkat makes his appearance.

Unbelievably comical and cute, the youngsters are each a perfect smaller version of their parents.

'Hum, huh, hum,' we both softly and repeatedly sing as we move closer to the pups with wide angle lenses. This is the special call we've been taught to use by the volunteer field assistant who tracked down the group for us. It reassures them that our presence is not a threat.

Each one carries on scanning their surroundings, and getting in each other's way, as they would do every other morning.

The animals that live here have been studied over many years as part of a major, long-running, research study known as the Kalahari Meerkat Project. Meerkats are ideal candidates for researchers to study because they are active

READING Part 6

a period of four years and starred in a TV documentary series. We wanted to see them for real.

So it's 5.30am and we are in the middle of nowhere, waiting for the sun to burn off the remains of yesterday's storm clouds. Nearby, a large black bird lets rip his deafening, regular wake-up call. 9 And while our eyes are off the ball, a meerkat makes his appearance.

- A At first we feel silly, and more than a little self-conscious, but it seems to work since the animals stay calm as we approach them.
- B We realise he has seen us and is checking us out before emerging fully.
- C This is because they are most active early in the morning and in the late afternoon.
- D Without it, it would not have been possible to make the TV programmes which had brought us here.
- E They are therefore able to spend hours in the field each day collecting important information without affecting the animals' routine.
- F This makes us both jump and distracts our attention from why we are here.
- G We had timed our visit with this possibility in mind but we still couldn't believe our luck.
- H This was because a series of seemingly endless, ear-splitting Kalahari thunderstorms resulted in a no-show of our subjects.
